

Jewel 294724: What to Expect

Jewel is a graduate of the Behavior Modification Program and needs a special home. Jewel is a shy, sweet girl who is ready to find her forever home. Jewel needs an understanding owner that is experienced with feline body language and has the time and desire to allow her to acclimate in her own time. Jewel may never be a social butterfly with everyone she meets, but she will bond with her new family when given the time she needs to acclimate.

Jewel was surrendered to the OHS Salem campus in August of 2023. She was originally found as a stray, so we don't have much history on her. While in the shelter environment, Jewel displayed fearful, shy behavior and was avoidant of being pet. She was adopted and returned twice over a few months due to both adopters not being prepared to take on such a shy kitty. Neither of the adopter's homes had other cats, and we learned overtime that having a cat friend for Jewel has been beneficial in helping her build confidence and trust with people. After being returned to the shelter twice, it was decided to transfer her to the Portland campus and place her in the Behavior Modification Program. This program would allow us to work with her on her fearful behavior.

We found early on that Jewel responds well to verbal encouragement. Sitting near her, speaking softly, and offering slow eye blinks gave Jewel the confidence needed to trust us. She also loves treats, especially Churus, and we used treats to build a positive association between people and food. Overtime, we encouraged her to come out of hiding using calm voices and tasty treats. Jewel also loves to play with toys, specifically wand toys and will pounce, chase, and toss toys in the air while running around with great delight. We would use toys to not only entertain her, but to continue to build a positive association with people. She also loves other cats and we saw her confidence and bravery flourish even more any time she had an opportunity to be around other cats. Being with her cat friends makes her feel more at ease and comfortable in her environment. After 6 weeks in the Behavior Modification program Jewel is now a social, engaging girl with people who enjoys being pet and leans in for cheek and chin scratches.

Jewel continues to be worried when loud and/or sudden movements occur. In these moments she will run and hide and may hiss or swat if you approach too quickly, but easily recovers with gentle calming voices. Once a bond and relationship are formed with people, she will lean in for pets and headbutt to show her affection. Her favorite activities are playing with toys, eating treats, and relaxing in the best sunspots. Other cats have been crucial in helping her build confidence. Jewel will need to find a home where there is another cat for her to have as a friend.

Her new family should expect that she will hide for a few weeks, possibly longer. You'll need to introduce her to new things slowly. Jewel typically flees and hides when overwhelmed or scared. If cornered, she may hiss, cower, and swat so it's important to not overwhelm her as she adjusts to her new home. It's important to provide her with a small room with appropriate hiding spots for her to relax in, such as her own hidey bed. Hiding spots that are confined to a tight spot and out of reach from you will make it difficult to build a bond with her. She should not be given access to the whole home setting until she has acclimated to one room. The room you set her up in will be the catalyst for how quickly she acclimates. Start thinking now which room in your home would be best for Jewel to settle into. If it's a bedroom, can she get under the bed or dresser making it difficult to spend time with her? If it's a laundry room or bathroom will the constant in and out of people and noises associated with these rooms be too much for her? By having a room without a lot of foot traffic and with appropriate hiding spots, it will allow you to work on building a relationship. While in her hiding spot, use calm voices and offer tasty treats to show you are not a threat. Place a small amount of a wet food or a treat on a spoon and offer it to Jewel while in her hidey spot. Or toss her a few crunchy treats. Bring the laser pointer or wand toy out and allow her to observe and engage with it. Over time, by continuing to do this, Jewel will become more comfortable and recognize that yummy food/playtime = people, therefore creating a positive association between the two.

Here's how to help Jewel during your first months together:

This step is crucial in helping Jewel acclimate to her new home. Confine Jewel to one cat-proof room in your house. Provide Jewel with a litter box, food, water, and a bed. Ensure she cannot get to inappropriate hiding spots (under the bed, in a closet, on top of a cabinet, etc.). Provide her with a safe, comfortable hiding place instead like her cat carrier, a hidey-bed, or a large dog crate covered with a blanket.

Spend time with Jewel in her room. Don't force her out of her hiding spot. Instead, encourage her to come out on her own using happy talk, offering a Touch Tool, treats or toys. Once she is using the litter box, eating regularly, and coming out of hiding to interact with you, you can start introducing her to the rest of your home. Start by propping the door open and allowing her to come out on her own. Don't force it! If you come across something that you can tell Jewel is worried about, allow her to hang back or hide if she chooses to do so.

Continue to provide a safe space. Even when Jewel has started exploring the rest of the house, give her a safe space that she can retreat to. When she is in her safe space, insist that guests leave her alone and try to ignore her yourself. That way, when she comes out, you can reward her bravery with your attention.

No visitors (at first). Allow Jewel time to adjust to your house, routine, and lifestyle before introducing her to new people. When you have visitors over, give Jewel the freedom to make the decision to interact (or not!). Ask new people to ignore her – or if Jewel seems curious or interested, have the new person toss her treats or offer a favorite toy. We want exciting, good things to come from new people.

Practice crate training. Leave her carrier out all the time, so it's just a part of her normal environment. Add a bed and keep the door securely propped open so she can go in and out on her own, making sure the door won't swing shut and frighten her. You can also clicker train her to run into the carrier on cue. Helping Jewel get comfortable with her carrier will make it easier when it's time to visit the vet.

Visiting the vet: Unless it's an emergency, give Jewel time to bond to you before taking her to the vet. Vet visits will more than likely be scary, but if she already trusts you, your presence may help her feel more comfortable.

Patience will come in handy for you. Jewel is a cat that needs an understanding owner who has the time and desire to allow her to adapt in her own time. She may never be a social butterfly, and that's okay! Getting to know her and watching her come out of her shell will be extremely rewarding. Celebrate those small victories.
