

Shiloh 298074: What to Expect

Shiloh is a graduate of the Behavior Modification Program and needs a special home. Shiloh is a shy, sweet girl who is ready to find her forever home. Shiloh needs an understanding owner that is experienced with feline body language and has the time and desire to allow her to acclimate in her own time. Shiloh may never be a social butterfly with everyone she meets, but she will bond with her new family when given the time she needs to acclimate.

Shiloh was surrendered to the OHS Salem campus due to there being too many cats in the home and the family was unable to properly care for all of them. When she first arrived, she displayed fearful behavior in her kennel, hiding under her blanket and cowering. Shiloh never showed aggressive behavior towards people, but it was clear that the shelter environment was overwhelming for her due to her continuous hiding from people. She was also diagnosed with Ringworm, which meant she had to be isolated and receive daily medications and twice weekly baths for a month before being deemed free of Ringworm. Though the team did a great job at treating her, the medical style handling coupled with her already shy behavior was not conducive to helping her thrive in the shelter environment. After she received her Ringworm treatment, it was decided to transfer her to the Portland campus and place her in the Behavior Modification program. This program would allow us to work with her on her fearful behavior.

We found early on that Shiloh responds well to verbal encouragement. Sitting near her, speaking softly, and offering slow eye blinks gave Shiloh the confidence needed to trust us. She also loves treats, especially Churus, and we used treats to build a positive association between people and food. Overtime, we encouraged her to come out of hiding using calm voices and tasty treats. When she was feeling more comfortable, we would offer our finger for her to sniff, and she would often lean into it rubbing her cheeks on our finger. As time went on, Shiloh became even more comfortable and started allowing full body pets. She rarely ever hides anymore and is regularly seen perching on her cat tower observing what's going on around her. She regularly seeks out attention from us and will roll around and purr and purr when she is happy.

Shiloh continues to be worried when loud and/or sudden movements occur. In these moments she will run and hide but easily recovers with gentle calming voices. Once a bond and relationship are formed with people, she will lean in for pets and headbutt to show her affection. Her favorite activities are playing with toys, eating treats, and relaxing in the best sunspots. Shiloh has lived with other cats in the past and may enjoy having a feline friend in her new home

Her new family should expect that she will hide for a few weeks, possibly longer. You'll need to introduce her to new things slowly. Shiloh typically flees and hides when overwhelmed or scared. If cornered, she may hiss, cower, and swat so it's important to not overwhelm her as she adjusts to her new home. It's important to provide her with a small room with appropriate hiding spots for her to relax in, such as her own hidey bed. Hiding spots that are confined to a tight spot and out of reach from you will make it difficult to build a bond with her. She should not be given access to the whole home setting until she has acclimated to one room. The room you set her up in will be the catalyst for how quickly she acclimates. Start thinking now which room in your home would be best for Shiloh to settle into. If it's a bedroom, can she get under the bed or dresser making it difficult to spend time with her? If it's a laundry room or bathroom will the constant in and out of people and noises associated with these rooms be too much for her? By having a room without a lot of foot traffic and with appropriate hiding spots, it will allow you to work on building a relationship. While in her hiding spot, use calm voices and offer tasty treats to show you are not a threat. Place a small amount of a wet food or a treat on a spoon and offer it to Shiloh while in her hidey spot. Or toss her a few crunchy treats. Bring the laser pointer or wand toy out and allow her to observe and engage with it. Over time, by continuing to do this, Shiloh will become more comfortable and recognize that yummy food/playtime = people, therefore creating a positive association between the two.

Here's how to help Shiloh during your first months together:

This step is crucial in helping Shiloh acclimate to her new home. Confine Shiloh to one cat-proof room in your house. Provide Shiloh with a litter box, food, water, and a bed. Ensure she cannot get to inappropriate hiding spots (under the bed, in a closet, on top of a cabinet, etc.). Provide her with a safe, comfortable hiding place instead like her cat carrier, a hidey-bed, or a large dog crate covered with a blanket.

Spend time with Shiloh in her room. Don't force her out of her hiding spot. Instead, encourage her to come out on her own using happy talk, offering a Touch Tool, treats or toys. Once she is using the litter box, eating regularly, and coming out of hiding to interact with you, you can start introducing her to the rest of your home. Start by propping the door open and allowing her to come out on her own. Don't force it! If you come across something that you can tell Shiloh is worried about, allow her to hang back or hide if she chooses to do so.

Continue to provide a safe space. Even when Shiloh has started exploring the rest of the house, give her a safe space that she can retreat to. When she is in her safe space, insist that guests leave her alone and try to ignore her yourself. That way, when she comes out, you can reward her bravery with your attention.

No visitors (at first). Allow Shiloh time to adjust to your house, routine, and lifestyle before introducing her to new people. When you have visitors over, give Shiloh the freedom to make the decision to interact (or not!). Ask new people to ignore her – or if Shiloh seems curious or interested, have the new person toss her treats or offer a favorite toy. We want exciting, good things to come from new people.

Practice crate training. Leave her carrier out all the time, so it's just a part of her normal environment. Add a bed and keep the door securely propped open so she can go in and out on her own, making sure the door won't swing shut and frighten her. You can also clicker train her to run into the carrier on cue. Helping Shiloh get comfortable with her carrier will make it easier when it's time to visit the vet.

Visiting the vet: Unless it's an emergency, give Shiloh time to bond to you before taking her to the vet. Vet visits will more than likely be scary, but if she already trusts you, your presence may help her feel more comfortable.

Patience will come in handy for you. Shiloh is a cat that needs an understanding owner who has the time and desire to allow her to adapt in her own time. She may never be a social butterfly, and that's okay! Getting to know her and watching her come out of her shell will be extremely rewarding. Celebrate those small victories.
